Shemesh Automation expands UK local after-sales support

Shemesh Automation (SA) is delighted to announce it has extended its customer-support services with two new additions to the UK-based team.

Building on the company's impressive growth within the UK market in recent years, Stuart Jones has joined the company as Sales & Support Manager for the UK. Stuart is both a qualified mechanical and electrical engineer and brings with him over 10 years' of hands-on experience. He has worked in the manufacturing industry previously for Ishida and United Biscuits across Europe on Major installations and resolving customers technical issues.

Stuart's appointment means Shemesh Automation now offers top level dedicated after-sales support to the UK market, with locally-based technical and electrical engineering expertise available to guide customers every step of the way.

Further increasing SA's presence in the UK, Carl Gunaratnam has been appointed Marketing Director and will be based at our UK Headquarters in Mayfair, London. Carl has over 10 years' experience in the marketing sector, working as the Chief of marketing for some of the biggest brands in the construction and lighting manufacturing industries.

Shai Shemesh, SA Managing Director commented: "With our customer base in the UK expanding, it brings me great pleasure to be able to grow the UK team and provide expert technical and electrical engineering support locally."

"I sincerely hope that both Stuart and Carl's appointments will help us reach our next phase of growth in 2017 and beyond as we seek to penetrate further into our strategic markets and expand globally".
